

State Insect

The Honey Bee

Honeybees are social insects that live in hives. They eat nectar from flowers, and spread pollen from flower to flower as they feed. All the bees in a bee hive are related to each other. There are three types of bees, the queen who lays eggs, the worker bee who gathers food and makes honey, and the male drone.